Willamette Valley Genealogical Society'sDNA Project

WVGS has a DNA Project for both men and women.

To join under WVGS:

1. Go to the State Library URL at: <http://oregon.gov/OSL/GRES/genealogy.shtml>
2. Click on Genealogy Research on the left.
3. Click on WVGS DNA Project.
4. Click on the Family Tree DNA icon in the middle of the page.
5. Scroll to the bottom of the next page and complete the form.
6. Click CONTINUE to complete the next screen.
7. Be sure to click only once when you are done so you order just one set.

You will receive a confirmation in your e-mail box that your order was taken. Remember: Only men can order the Y-DNA test, but both men and women can order the mtDNA. It is cheaper to order the Y-DNA 37 marker test as it will tell you that you have a common ancestor within genealogical time for persons you match. Lesser tests (12 markers) provide information on older ancestors prior to 600 years ago. However you may wish to start small and upgrade. For the mtDNA order both the HVR1 and HVR2 panels (mtDNA plus) as this will give you the best information on your ethnic origins. Again, you can start small and upgrade, if needed.

NEW! Discover close relatives and your ethnic percentages with Family Finder! Available to both males and females.

Family Finder uses autosomal DNA (inherited from both the mother and father, four grandparents, eight great-grandparents, etc.) to provide you a breakdown of your ethnic percentages and connect you with relatives descended from any of your ancestral lines within approximately the last 5 generations.

Questions?...

More information on Genetic Genealogy can be found at the following website by linking to its various pages (Click LEARN on the right side of the page):

www.familytreedna.com. If any of you have questions regarding DNA and which tests to order, please e-mail Emily Aulicino at: aulicino@hevanet.com. Emily is WVGS' Project Administrator.

The DNA Project is open to anyone, not just WVGS members. You are not charged until you send in your test kit. You can do the DNA testing through WVGS and submit it to other groups.

Donations

Thank you to all our members who donate to our society. We "pass the can" each month for donations to the book fund. We also have special collections for purchasing books in memory of members who have passed away.

We also have received substantial monetary donations from life members Donald Houk, Joan Kaiser and Jim Willhite. In addition we receive many donated books, CDs and periodicals. Thank you all for your donations which allow WVGS to function and to donate to the Oregon State Library collection.

Since the Oregon State Library is currently working on a plan of reorganization and possible elimination of services due to budget cutbacks, the monetary donations, not designated for the Book Fund, are being reserved for now.

January Program

Our January program was presented by WVGS member Sue Bell. Her reference book was Imagine: How Creativity Works by Jonah Lehrer. Sue reviewed how our brain works: left hemisphere being the source of linear thinking and the right hemisphere being the source of imagination and creativity.

In genealogy we work in a linear manner, with family, resources, generations, and research. But we hit those brick walls. Sue presented an approach to unleashing our creativity. Strategies are to meditate (clear your mind for other thoughts), daydream (imagine yourself in the footsteps of ancestors), sleep on it or forget about it for awhile.

Sue also suggested working within a group. Join WVGS or other organizations. Brainstorm with others. Don't overlook casual connections. And there's always serendipity—Psychic Roots by Hank Z Jones is all about the influence of coincidence and serendipity on genealogical research, the chance combination of events over which the researcher has no control but which nevertheless guides him to a fortuitous discovery.

Or move to Corvallis, ranked one of the most innovative cities in America! Thank you Sue!

Notes from Oregon State Library Staff*Forwarded by Alice Laviolette:

According to a recent Business Week article, genealogy remains the second most popular topic searched online, and research shows that visitors engaged with online genealogy resources are older adults—a demographic that is expected to grow 36 percent in the next decade.

If you'd like to read the full article, it is available at this link: <http://www.businessweek.com/articles/2012-09-20/ancestry-dot-coms-genealogical-juggernaut>

Forwarded by Dave Hegeman:

The "OnlineFamilyNetwork" website, <http://www.onlinefamilynetwork.org/> has been established to give Family History researchers a complete one-stop website within which to conduct your research and to network with one another.

To begin your research, cruise around the various sections of the banner, and then – to SUBSCRIBE to a particular Family Newsletter, visit the FAMILY HISTORY category (in the banner), look at all the information that is available, and then be sure to SUBSCRIBE to the Newsletter(s) for the surname (s) you are interested in.

Forwarded by Robin Speer:

The following new title is available for interlibrary loan from the Oregon State Library: Dowell, David R. Crash Course in Genealogy.

According to the author, this book is intended to be a basic training course for library workers who need to get an overview of genealogy very quickly in order to help those family history researchers that frequently visit libraries. Beginning with library genealogical services policies, the guide moves on to cover genealogical research principles and most-used sources. It also illustrates how one can perform a search backward in time through American family history. .

Research

Suggestions for French Canadian Research

1. Websites:

- FrancoGene <http://www.francogene.com/genealogy/index.php>
This site advertises itself as "Your gateway to Franco-American and French-Canadian Genealogy on the Internet". It is divided into sections: The New World: Quebec, Acadia, Canada, US; The Ancient World: France, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, World; Tools: FrancoGene, Internet, Exchanges, Features. Each has informational articles, links, dictionaries, and lots of information.
- Researching French-Canadian Ancestors <http://genealogy.about.com/od/canada/a/french-canadian.htm>
This is a good article about how to research French Canadian ancestors and church records. Links to records.
- FamilySearch.org <https://familysearch.org/>
Select Canada, then Quebec
Quebec Catholic Parish Registers, 1621-1900
These Catholic Parish registers from Quebec, which have been digitized and placed online for free browsing and viewing by the Family History Library, contain christening, marriage and burial records for most parishes of Quebec, Canada, from 1621 through 1900. Free!
- Library and Archives of Canada <http://www.collectionscanada.gc.ca/>
Select English, then Genealogy and Family History, then under "What you can do", select Ancestors Search. There are many databases for all provinces, including Quebec.
- Other databases on FamilySearch.org
Quebec Census, 1861 (called Canada East at that time), Quebec, Births and Baptisms, 1662-1898 (a small index of a few localities), Quebec, Non-Catholic Parish Registers, 1763-1967, Quebec, Quebec Judicial District, Guardianships, 1639-1930 (not indexed at this time, browse only).

Research

2. French Canadians in Oregon:

- FRENCH CANADIANS in the 1842 Oregon census <http://freepages.history.rootsweb.ancestry.com/~mransom/frcan1842.html>
French Canadian trappers and hunters were the first settlers. This website by Mike Ransom gives information on the 1842 French Canadian settlers in Oregon from the book List of Settlers West of Rockies, 1842, By Elijah White, Indian Agent.
- Settlers on French Prairie, Oregon Territory, in 1836-1838 <http://www.lenzenresearch.com/STPaulpages/spfprairie.html>
Connie Lenzen of the Genealogical Forum of Oregon has done this website of settlers in 1836, 1837 and 1838.
- Native Americans, French Canadians, and Intermarriage
<http://www.usgennet.org/usa/or/county/clackamas/indiancensus.html>
A website by Patricia Kohnen in Clackamas County. Information on resources for French Canadians, Métis (part-Indian/ part-white, usually French Canadian) people as well as for Native Oregonians associated with the missions or the fur trade. Includes a link to Hudson Bay Company information.

3. Ancestry.com:

- Ancestry.com requires a subscription but is available for free on the computers at the Oregon State Library. Quebec databases include:
- Quebec, Vital and Church Records (Drouin Collection), 1621-1967. This database contains Catholic church records from Ontario filmed by the Institut Généalogique Drouin. The majority of the records included are baptisms, marriages, and burials, but other record types are also included. Most of the records are written in French, but some records may be written in English, Latin, or Italian.

French Canadian continued—

- Quebec, Canada, Land Grants, 1763-1890
This database contains an alphabetized index of people who received a Land Grant from the Crown between 1763 and 1890.
- Many other databases, many in French though.

4. Oregon State Library:

- Friend and Family on French Prairie [and elsewhere] by George T. Brown. George T. Brown has researched the Canadian origins of many of the French Prairie, Oregon settlers. The result is a series of ancestry charts that lead the researcher to the Canadian churches where marriage records can be found and to the location in France where the immigrant ancestor lived.
- Catholic Church Records of the Pacific Northwest by Harriet Duncan Munnick. Harriet Munnick read the original church registers for the earliest Catholic churches and extracted the records in a series of seven books. Each book is completely indexed (person named in the record, parents, witnesses).
- The Tanguay Collection Genealogical dictionary of Canadian families. On CD
Volume one lists each of the original immigrants and their families through the year 1700. The remaining six volumes document the vital records of succeeding generations until about 1765. The seventh volume also lists over one hundred pages of surname variations and dit names.
- Our French-Canadian Ancestors by Thomas J. Laforest. OSL has 30 volumes of biographies with indexes.
- Other family histories and genealogy books on Quebec and French Canadians.

Genealogy Thoughts

Drive-by genealogists should learn a few rules

By Sharon Tate Moody

November 18, 2012 in TampaBayOnline

The genealogy world is cluttered with materials that purport to be the writers' family histories. Too many of them are nothing more than lists of people with unproven dates of birth, death and marriage, and in many cases the people on the list aren't even related.

The individuals who created those lists are the same ones who believe the television ads about how easy it is to click on a few links and find your entire family. People who believe those ads are sort of the joy riders of genealogy: They steal the family car and have a grand old time for the weekend, racing around the Internet and leaving a mess for someone else to clean up on Monday morning.

I'm not big on government oversight or regulation of everything in our lives, but sometimes I wonder if we should require folks to have a research license (sort of like a driver's license) before they can publish their "work," in print or on the Internet. At the core of this licensing program would be an understanding of some really important terms, including sources, information, evidence, and proof.

- A source is a physical thing, such as a person, a book or a website. There are two kinds of sources: original and derivative. The original is in its first recorded (oral or written) form. A derivative results from reproducing the original. This can be a copy from scanning, photographing or microfilming the original; or it may be a copy someone made by sitting down and copying it by hand.
- Information is the data that comes from a source. It can be primary or secondary. Primary information is firsthand knowledge — someone was actually there when an event occurred. Secondary information comes from someone with more distant knowledge, such as Aunt Mary telling you what her mother told her. Just because information is primary doesn't mean it's true, and because something is secondary doesn't mean it is erroneous.
- Evidence is information that is relevant to the issue we're pondering. It can be direct or indirect. Direct evidence answers a question without help from more than one source. Indirect evidence doesn't answer the question until you add to it information from another source.
- Proof is a conclusion we reach with thoroughly documented research that we have correctly interpreted, analyzed, and put together.

Sometimes folks use these terms incorrectly, and that muddies the water. For example, a researcher might find a document that says a couple married on a specific date. That researcher may tell others that this "proves" the marriage. In fact, it isn't proof, but it is evidence of the marriage and needs a bit more work. We take the hypothesis and continue our work either to prove or disprove what we think to be true.

In Memory

One of WVGS founders and first president Erma Lee (Skyles) Brown passed away November 27, 2012 in Salem. Erma loved genealogy. She did extensive research and published many genealogy related resource documents.

Please read the tribute to Erma in the latest edition of Beaver Briefs.
